

Assarmatori to the new minister: the industry of the sea needs clear answers and concrete facts

By the new government they are attended in particular on the topic of infrastructures

infomARE - Between the turned homages to Paola De Micheli, from today new minister of Infrastructures and the Transports, there are also those of Assarmatori, than as other organizations of the field of the transports and of the logistics it has exhorted the new Italian government, than this morning he has lend oath, to support the section that - it has emphasized the shipowning association - is fundamental and altogether it is worth 3% of the Gross Domestic Product one, an important portion of the national occupation that - it has evidenced Assarmatori - could be still developed thanks to the increase of the marine transport and the logistics.

Moreover Assarmatori has remembered the new minister who the industry of the sea is living the most delicate moment and needs clear answers, concrete facts, in particular on the topic of infrastructures, and places not equivocal. (infomARE)