Ance Liguria launches the challenge in defense of the Superbonus by 110%

SUPERBONUS
110%

Genoa. The last data provided by Enea on the effects of the 110% bonus they dispel any doubts about the value of this maneuver as well as the need to guarantee its continuity. “But according to Liguria reeds, the climate of uncertainty initially fueled at the political level is already leading to a constant erosion of this measure”. Lenders, Italian big companies are already refusing to discount investments in the construction sector, they are not buying tax credits and «Generate a global climate of uncertainty and – according to Emanuele Ferraloro, president of ANCE Liguria – they erode confidence in the future of the bonus, creating the conditions for a real systemic collapse, with consequences not only on the construction sector, but on the entire Italian economy, with damage incalculable employment».

«The data published by Aeneas – according to ANCE Liguria – speak for themselves: as of May 31, 2022 the Superbonus had activated 30.6 billion euros of investments admitted as a deduction with the opening of 172 thousand construction sites in Italy. In Liguria, works amounting to 338,307,102.15 million euros were admitted to deduction with 1970 construction sites”.

“It is evidently – goes on Ferraloro – of enormous results if we consider that the budget law for the year 2022 provided for the same financial dowry and that the so-called Superbonus concerns only one sector, the construction and plant engineering one. In other terms: investing in construction counts as a budget law and the implications are very clear, for better or for worse”.

The theme now is: who will buy the tax credits?

“If the moving train crashes or worse derails, the economic sector that has driven the recovery and on which all the institutions rely to modernize the nation thanks to the PNRR will suffer a fatal impact. This is the reason why ANCE Liguria has launched a communication campaign, focused on the founding principles of rugby, namely team spirit support, willingness to sacrifice and determination, to declare, once again, that construction companies are part of the “team Italia” and ready to do their part. It is crucial that they decide to join the scrum package to push the Government, the political forces and the economic and financial world together” – concludes.
