Bonus 110, Ance Liguria: “Overcoming the contradictions also for the 2023 bonus”

Liguria. “It is useless to cry over spilled milk, but it is time to make the obligation to comply with the commitments assumed by the State coercive for everyone”. According to Emanuele Ferraloro, president of Ance Liguria, the economic maneuver has “swept away hopes in an extension of the 110% bonus, but has highlighted an obligation: the one that calls all the protagonists of the construction credit chain to respect the rules of the game, if necessary by establishing a mechanism of progressive sanctions for those who continue to play their game independently”.

“We are referring – Ferraloro specifies – to the banking system which refuses or cannot discount bonuses throughout the country and is blowing up operations that have already been approved, but also businesses, families and jobs; to too many banks that obviously don’t trust the Revenue Agency. If not, let them prove it to us with facts”.

“Very well, we accept the challenge of the new government – concludes the president of Ance Liguria – but on the condition that everyone respects the rules of the game, first and foremost the Cdp; if this happens we will be the first to seek alternative or additional solutions with the government, such as forms of surety to release problem loans. Unfortunately there are no spaces to consider alternative proposals for now. Instead it is essential and very urgent to release problem credits”.
